GENERAL NEWS.

A WOMAN LIVES EIGHT MONTHS WITHOUT TAKING FOOD.

Auditor French in bad Odor—West Point Turning out too many Lieutenants—Wheat Prospects in Kansas, etc., etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CHICAGO, June 18.—A Times special from Battle Creek, Mich., says: Short mention has been made in the Times at various times of Mrs. Nellie Ingram, who since last October has been unable to eat. She is now 23 years old and has been twice married. In girlhood she was a robust specimen of blooming health and the possessor of a more than ordinarily fine constitution, which did not grow less as she advanced in age. On October 11th she stepped into a dentist's office for the purpose of having a tooth extracted. She was then in most perfect health and weighed not far from 180 pounds. The tooth that was the occasion of her visit was a large double one situated far back in the jaw, firm and fast, and very troublesome from a cavity. The extraction was a very difficult one, producing intense pain, and Mrs. Ingram became terribly excited, which culminated in a nervous shock. A hack was called and she was conveyed home in a greatly prostrated condition and was taken immediately with a severe pain in the bowels, which has continued night and day since that time, accompanied by a terrible sickness and nausea. She attempted to eat food to sustain life, but the pressure of food only produced a loathing and deathly sickness. The experiment was repeated many times until it became a torment, and she was at last given up. Since October 11, 1880, she has lain in bed, unable to take food or water and have it remain in her stomach, and unable to eject anything by vomiting. A paroxysm of retching comes on that leaves her in a totally exhausted condition. It is not necessary that food should be presented to produce it, and at these spasms occur every hour or so. The attending physician began giving her injections, thereby sustaining life by a process of absorption by the walls of the intestines. They have also sustained life by baths of beef tea, milk and such highly nutritious liquids, with an occasional bath of alcohol to keep the pores open. She has lived for the past eight months on this thin diet. Her weight has been reduced from 180 to less than 80 pounds, but her face still preserves a healthy appearance. Her nerves are at such a high tension that she is unable to sleep more than 2 hours in the 24, and a dread dream is all that her state will allow. She has substantially lost her voice, and is unable to speak above a low whisper. A constant fever attends her, accompanied by an intense thirst, but she can not drink any more than eat.

Severe Storm in Northern Ohio.

CLEVELAND, June 18.—A severe storm swept over a portion of Northern Ohio last night by which trees were uprooted and buildings blown down or unroofed. Considerable damage was caused from lightning and water near Wakeman. Half of Higgins' grove fell by the cyclone. Several orchards were more or less destroyed, barns torn to pieces and horses and cattle killed or injured. The storm track was half a mile wide and its duration one hour.

Most Horrible.

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—The number of dead bodies found in the Missouri river at this point recently has given rise to a suspicion that there is an organized band of thugs at work at some point on the river above here. A few days ago the body of a young woman entirely nude was taken out of the current. Yesterday the headless body of a man was found floating, and to-day the body of a man with his throat cut from ear to ear was found floating a few miles below the city.

The Kansas Wheat Crop.

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—The Republican's Kansas city special says dispatches and letters received by leading agricultural implement dealers in this city from different parts of Kansas report that west of the line from Concord on the Central branch railroad, South Elk on the Kansas city, Lawrence and Southern branch, the wheat crop will be above the average. This embraces the winter wheat district. East of the above named line there will not be more than half crop. The wheat crop of the entire state will not probably be as large as that of four years ago, but the general crop will be the largest ever known in the state. The corn crop looks well and promises to be the largest ever harvested in Kansas.

Disastrous Collision.

TROY, June 18.—A collision occurred between two trains near here to-day, through the carelessness of an operator by which a boy was killed, a man seriously hurt and two others injured.

Important Discoveries among the Pueblos of New Mexico.

A correspondent of the Boston Herald, writing from Fort Wingate, N. M., describes in enthusiastic language the recent discoveries made by T. H. Cushing, who was sent out by the Smithsonian Institute two years ago to investigate among the Pueblos in New Mexico the history and customs of the natives. Cushing, who has made Zuni, the last of the Indian Pueblos, the seat of his researches, is said to have acquired great influence and prominent position among the people so that every facility for exploration and study had been afforded him even to the disclosure of facts which religious superstition had jealously guarded. He has mastered the language and mysteries of a complicated religious system and is said to be now in a position to overturn many of the hitherto accepted beliefs respecting the Aztecs, and even the most established traditions about the great Montezuma.

Death of an old California Pioneer.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Auditor French's Letter to Stanford Likely to Cause his Removal.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Times' special from Washington: President Garfield has said that he only wanted a good pretext to remove Auditor French. French has kindly furnished the president not only a pretext, but a positive reason for his summary removal. Last winter Auditor French made a furious attack on the Central Pacific, charging that the company had willfully diverted money which should have been paid into the treasury on account of the sinking fund; that the company were leasing for themselves auxiliary lines of roads upon which freights were carried independent of the main line. He had an injunction sworn out against the Central Pacific to prevent it from declaring a dividend until the alleged deficits were made up. A suit against the company is now pending and in charge of the attorney general. Recently Auditor French went west to gather testimony for the prosecution of this suit. During his absence he has written a most remarkable letter to the president of the Central Pacific railroad; in other words, he withdraws his entire case. The most astonishing thing about this is that French made no official report to the department, and has not given the attorney general the slightest information upon the subject. Instead of that, he reports to the president of the Central Pacific as if he were the paid creature, and eats his own words uttered last winter with a satisfaction that calls seriously into question his motives. The attorney general is reported as having been very much incensed by French's strange action. If French had reported all these facts to his superior officer here, there would perhaps have been not so much surprise, but that he should say nothing to them and everything to the president of the company after he has been so faithfully prosecuting the suit has created most serious adverse comment. A further significant fact is that this letter of French was given out to the public through one of Jay Gould's organs in New York and through that publication French's superiors here to-day learned for the first time of this change of base.

Worse and Worse.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The case against Auditor French grows worse. His critical report against the Central Pacific now appears to have been a huge [illegible] affair. His astonishing letter was held in New York long enough for those on the inside to buy, giving the French combination huge profits. Kirkwood sent Assistant Attorney-general Maynard to confer with McVeagh. French will be called on for an explanation and then be removed. It is probable that Gen. Jere. Rusk, of Wisconsin, will get the place.

Not enough Vacancies for West Point Graduates.

NEW YORK, June 18.—A Herald's Washington special says: It is said at the war department that unless casualties in the army during the next academic year are greater than they have been in years past not more than one-fourth, about fourteen, of the next class to graduate can be commissioned. The rest will return to civil pursuits. Existing vacancies to be filled by the class just graduated are thirty-three, leaving twenty additional second lieutenants who will be assigned to vacancies as fast as they occur. The probability is that during the year the vacancies will not be more than thirteen in excess of the number to be provided for in the class now swelling the assortment. The adjutant general to-day issued a circular covering the law which hereafter observed under the laws cited appointments to fill vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant in the army are made, first, from the graduating class of each year at the military academy; second, from meritorious non-commissioned officers of the army; third, from regular graduates of the military academy honorably discharged from the service; fourth, from the civil list, the first three classes being more than sufficient to fill vacancies occurring in the army from year to year.

The Coalition in Virginia.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A Richmond telegram states that republicans will surely nominate Wickham for governor, and old whigs and debt payers will support him. Republicans have no confidence in Mahone, and distrust his movements. Lewis will first be asked to resign the chairmanship of the republican state committee. If he refuses he will be displaced, as he is on the readjuster ticket.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The coalitions of readjusters and republicans claim that they are more than satisfied with Wickham's interview with the president yesterday. The president did not say a word, committing himself against the coalition.

Personal.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The president and family have gone to Long Branch.

There remains but 11 days, Sundays included, in which these bonds may be extended before July 1.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Parnell Raises Opposition to the Land Bill.

LONDON, June 18.—The most important incident of the week, passed almost unnoticed and unreported, namely: Parnell's virtual announcement on Tuesday of his abandonment of opposition to the land bill. He spoke briefly, advising Gregard to withdraw his amendment declaring that nothing should be done to imperil the passage of this great measure for the benefit of Ireland. Parnell's friends explain his complete change of policy to his Whitsuntide visit to Ireland, where he discovered that his supporters were perplexed and irritated by his position and that the peasantry were eager for the passage of the bill, the political advisers of the league agreeing that it was impossible to persist in the previous policy of opposition. This produces a great beneficial change in the whole political situation and dispenses for the present with the necessity for new measures to facilitate the progress of the bill through the house. It reassures the government and relieves the strain of parliament. It is now confidently expected that the bill will reach the house of lords by the middle of July.

LIVERPOOL, June 18.—A London correspondent of the Liverpool Post, referring to a report that a dispatch has been sent from the British foreign office to the American government calling attention to the operations of Fenians in New York, says that the dispatch is of the friendliest character. It recites atrocious passages in O'Donovan Rossa's paper, and submits that they go somewhat beyond the widest limits of freedom of the press, but makes no demand upon the United States as to any particular action.

A Tenant Wins.

MARSEILLES, June 19.—As the troops just disembarked, on their return from Tunis, were marching through Rue Republique hisses were heard from an Italian club. A crowd surrounded the club house and demanded the removal of the Italian escutcheon from the building. The commissary of the police advised its removal, but the president of the club peremptorily refused. The prefect of police endeavored to calm the crowd and sent for the gendarmes, but before their arrival the deputy mayor and municipal councillor, in spite of the protests of the prefect, tore down the escutcheon. The crowd afterwards dispersed and the approaches to the club house was occupied by troops.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

ALBANY, June 18.—Jacobs 41, Conkling 30, Wheeler 26, Cornell 5, Lapham 13, Crowley 2, Folger 4, Tremaine 1.

Platt vote: Depew 41, Kernan 1, Platt 27, Cornell 3, Wheeler 1, Crowley 4, Lapham 1; adjourned.

In the assembly the concurrent resolution for final adjournment for the 20th was tabled, four democrats only voting in its favor.

The Bribery Investigation.

ALBANY, June 18.—Cashier Goodall of the Utica bank testified that he received the following telegram from Barber: "Albany, June 14.—I would give the committee a statement of the account if it will save you coming. I have no objection to their having it. I got this after I was subpœnaed. Yet letters were all gone when I got to the bank."

Senator Strahan testified: "On May 18th I received a telegram in my room as follows: 'Washington, May 18 (Confidential).—It is very important to you personally that you meet me at the Delavan to-night, at 11 o'clock. I leave here at once. Say nothing to anyone of this. Repeat it. Do not fail without fail. (Signed.) JOHN I. DAVENPORT.'

"I went down to the Delavan hotel and met him there. He asked me if I wanted the Marshalship here. I asked him why. He said that he was in with Garfield in this fight and that he could get it for me. I asked if I accepted office would I be expected to vote against Conkling? He said yes. I then said that I did not think that I could accept the place. I wanted to be independent. I told him I did not know if Conkling would be a candidate or not and if he was I should support him. He said that I had better think it over and meet him at the Fifth Avenue hotel at 9 o'clock. He said that I would have to accept on the [illegible] at all. The cabinet, he said, will meet to-morrow before 12 o'clock and you will be confirmed. I told him that I would meet him, though there was no probability of my accepting. I met him and declined the appointment. I have not seen him since. No tender of office has been tendered me since. I do not know as this has anything to do with this case. I do not know how I came to be brought here. I knew nothing of it before subpœnaed. I went to Gen. Arthur and Conkling and told them the circumstances and they told me that they did not want to advise me in the matter. I told them that I was very much averse to going to the committee on the subject."

Testimony was taken showing that Tillinghast of the New York Central railroad had a check for $2,000 cashed recently, that he desired $2,000 in bills, which he wanted to use in Buffalo. Tillinghast has been subpœnaed.

The cashier at the Kenmore hotel testified that he had received checks from Glover for E. B. Phelps. Phelps has been a visitor at our house annually for the past three years. I received from him a check for $1,000 on the 26th of May, and took it to the bank to deposit it on account of Blake. Phelps has received money for it. He drew it on two different days in four or five checks.

Adjourned until Tuesday.

German Boom for Depew.

NEW YORK, June 18.—German republicans declared to-night at mass meeting that Depew having a majority of the republican votes should be elected senator, and the democrats should oppose any republicans except those who did not support him.

A STALWART COUNCIL.

Conkling, Platt, Arthur, Grant and Others Hold a Conference—General Talk.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Senators Conkling and Platt are at the Fifth Avenue hotel but receive few callers. Conkling was found in his rooms, but was extremely reticent about speaking on the subject of the senatorial contest. He observed that the political interests of the state were in such shape at present that it would be imprudent for him to speak on any subject, and especially on the [illegible] connected with the honor of those who are concerned in the investigation. Conkling says that any day might bring about a climax which has been so earnestly desired and eagerly sought. General Grant refused to converse on politics, and declares that his presence in the city is due to want of rest, which he is hopeful of having satisfied in the metropolis and at Long Branch. The general will in all probability leave for the seaside about the middle of next week.

The Post says: Ex-Senators Conkling and Platt and Gen. Grant met in Conkling's room at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this forenoon, and were in consultation for an hour. Messengers were first sent for Vice-President Arthur, Judge W. Smith, Senator Jones and a few others, including several republicans. The consultation did not last long. Platt then departed for his down town office, and the others scattered. Conkling remaining with Grant. It was reported that some conversation was given to the question whether it would be advisable for Grant to go to Albany, and it was concluded that it would not be helpful to Conkling. Another point which is to be further considered to-night and to-morrow is a possibility that a compromise will have to be made in order to save one stalwart senator, and the person upon whom the compromise would fall by making and that he would not go back to Washington unless Platt went with him. His friends urged him not to make this an irrevocable decision, but he said that he should adhere to it. Cornell's name was considered in case a compromise should be necessary, but Arthur strongly opposed. The only name that could find united support, was that of Grant. He said that he did not want office. He has a Mexican railroad on his hands and does not want to return to active political life. He however consented to keep the question under advisement. One of the principal matters to be considered by stalwart leaders to-day and to-morrow is the preparation of testimony for investigating committees to consider next week. Senator Platt said to-day that some startling developments might be expected. I do not see, said Platt, how the matter is going to end. I see no prospect of either an election or an adjournment. Depew's vote will break up next week.

The saw mills at Milton and Portland are the only ones of any size on the Sound now lying idle. They are paid by the mill's association not to work, and probably make as much as if they were cutting lumber. All the rest are doing the best they can to twelve hours a day, which is the combination time for work. Immense quantities of lumber are being shipped to California and foreign parts. Large logs are particularly in demand, and square timbers and plank 100 feet long and upwards command the highest prices. A Mr. Brown, near Olympia, is getting out one or two forty logs, the export of which must be 100 feet long, and Ben Turner is also getting sticks required to [illegible] long daily. A deal of this is for Cal. to be used in ship building.

WRINKLED FACES.

It is a painful sight to see young ladies in their teens with wrinkled and prematurely old faces, nevertheless it is quite common, and many are who observes the tendency of the times the reason is very apparent. Owing to alarming advertisements and bogus certificates, in which are used the names of eminent physicians and chemists, the unsuspecting and credulous have been induced to use some of the so-called liquid beautifiers all of which are known to be positively injurious and if used for any length of time will destroy the complexion, so that it will be next to impossible to restore it. Mothers should be very careful to see that their daughters do not use these preparations but ask for and obtain Slaven's Harmless Yosemite Face Powder, the only harmless beautifier. THE NEW VERSION

AS VIEWED BY REV. GEO. F. PLUMMER OF TRINITY CHURCH.

He Thinks the Only Improvement is in the Arrangement into Subjects, and Translation of the Epistles.

Yesterday morning, Rev. George F. Plummer preached to a large congregation at Trinity Episcopal church on the revised version of the New Testament, taking for his text Psalms 119:105: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." He said:

It is almost impossible for us now a days to realize the intense enthusiasm that attended the first publication of the English bible. It seems to me to be one of the saddest defects of our poor, fallen nature that what we have readily and in abundance we do not appreciate. So true is this, that the thought has passed into a proverb, "Our blessings brighten as they take their flight." People who are blessed with church privileges do not live up to those privileges. People blessed with Sunday schools in their midst neglect to send the children. People who can buy a bible for a trifle let that bible grow dusty for want of use. But once there were no such privileges; and when our English bible was published, and ordered to be read, all who could read at all flocked to the parish churches to get a hearing or a neighbor's reading of the copy chained to the reading desk.

Something like the same eagerness has been shown this year in the demand for the Revised New Testament. Thousands of people waited at the stores or book depots for hours in order to secure a copy before the edition should be disposed of. Of course the motives which prompted the people to get possession of the revised edition were somewhat different from those which prompted the desire for our authorized version. Then the English nation was hungry for the word of God itself; on this latter occasion they were anxious, most of all, to see what changes learning and scholarship could produce in the book they had learned to love so well.

I want to speak this morning of this Revised Edition and compare it with our authorized version, in order to show you, if I can, in such brief space, its beauties and its defects. But, before going on, allow me to glance at former editions of the bible in English. The first English bible was translated by Bishop Coverdale, and published in 1535. Two years after another edition appeared, translated by Thomas Matthews. In a letter from Archbishop Cranmer to Cromwell, dated August, 1537, the Archbishop begs Cromwell to read this book, to show it to the King and obtain from him a license that the same may be sold and read of every person, without danger of any act or proclamation or ordinance heretofore granted to the contrary, until the bishops of England should set forth a better translation, "Which," says the archbishop, "I think will not be until the day after doomsday." The king did authorize the use of this bible, according to Cranmer's request, and it thus stands as the first authorized English bible.

But Cranmer was mistaken in his estimate of the zeal of the English bishops. It is true that his doomsday came before the translation which he so much desired to see. Under Mary, sometimes called the Bloody Mary, he was burnt to death at the stake. But Archbishop Parker in time succeeded him, and almost at once began a new translation of the scriptures. This translation, published in 1568, was called the Bishops bible, because so many bishops had been engaged upon the work.

But still the church was not satisfied. The translations already made had been made either hurriedly or by men unfitted for the work, and the people wanted a more accurate translation, and one that should more entirely represent royal authority and Christian scholarship. It was not for England's virgin queen to take the honor of giving to the English world an English bible. It was reserved for James I., who ascended the throne in 1603. James was a pedant, though somewhat a pedant and in answer to the prayers of his people he [illegible] that by which we yet see a bible well translated into English. He entered into the work of revision with much zeal. Fifty-four translators were appointed, to meet in various companies at Westminster, Oxford and Cambridge, under the presidency of the dean of Westminster and the two Hebrew professors. These 54 translators chose the bishops' bible as the one to be followed and amended, and very strict rules were laid down for their guidance. Every available version that was consulted and the greatest care was exercised. The authorized version was published in 1611. It is this book that now, to the great English speaking world, the English reader has studied, prayed and wept over, and which has become a dear familiar friend. Taking it all in all, I do not believe it possible to improve upon it. I sincerely admire and am most thankful for its simplicity.

The Revised New Testament was begun [illegible] years ago [illegible] in the Jerusalem chamber [illegible]. [illegible] by the revisers, in which [illegible] advantages [illegible] follows [illegible] English bible [illegible] book to distinguish. The print is [illegible] verses and [illegible] have been found. [illegible] other sources, [illegible] marks, or other means. And it has been found [illegible] Revised Testament [illegible] alike. And in reading [illegible] verses we have the text divided into paragraphs according to the subject. In it, for instance, [illegible] Elijah [illegible] Isaiah. This greatly simplifies the text. Then the article has been prefixed to the Saviour's title, and it is uniformly printed "the Christ." This is certainly an improvement. To call the Saviour "the Christ" is to call him the anointed one, similar to the Hebrew term Messiah. And the anointed one, we all know, means at once prophet, priest and king.

As to the general text of the Revised Testament, its improvement upon the authorized version will be found, in my judgment, exclusively in the Epistles. If any man will read the Epistle to the Romans, for instance, he will find that we have lost those long and intricate sentences and parentheses which make the text of our version so difficult to read in public. The punctuation has also been improved; and there can be no doubt that the general reader will find the meaning of the apostle more clear in the revised edition than in King James version. There have necessarily been few improvements. The Greek text was very carefully gathered to its own version, but I cannot see that anything has been discovered that has been added to the [illegible] meaning [illegible].

I will cite a few of the changes made in the revised book, which seem to me are great improvements. In the revised version, 8th chapter of Romans, [illegible] verse, we read, "[illegible]" [illegible] a new light [illegible]. The authorized [illegible] for we are [illegible] that all things work together for good to them that love God." [illegible] revised edition [illegible] to the revised Scriptures [illegible] this is not [illegible] the words [illegible] as [illegible] which have caused so much [illegible] in the world [illegible] have [illegible] Greek.

In the 5th chapter of Romans, 1st verse, we have in our authorized version the words "Being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." This has been changed in the revised edition to "let us have." "Being justified by faith, let us have peace with God through Jesus Christ, our Lord." A translation more in the purpose of the apostle, who is urging justification by faith as a reason why we should have peace with God. In the epistle to the Galatians, 5th, 15th, our version reads, "And my temptation which was in my flesh ye despised not nor rejected." It is somewhat difficult to understand the apostle as it stands here. The revised edition has made it plain, and has moreover, if I am not mistaken, done good service on the conversion of the text. You will perhaps remember that St. Paul is speaking about his physical infirmity, whatever it was. And this, as translated, he says, "That which was a temptation to you in my flesh ye despised not nor rejected." The Galatians knew that they might have found fault with him for such his infirmity, but they did not do so, they overlooked his infirmity.

In the 5th chapter of Ephesians, 4th verse, the apostle warns his converts against filthiness, and foolish talking or jesting, which he is made to say in our version, "are not convenient." It is not easy to see what "convenient" means in this connection. The revised edition renders the word "befitting," which is exactly literal, and at once understood. A little further on we read, "See then that ye walk circumspectly." In the revised edition it is, "Look therefore carefully how ye walk." The word "circumspectly," it is true, is easily understood, but the last translation is more exact and better.

In the general epistle of St. James we read, "He that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven with the wind and tossed." The writer is urging us to faith to pray, and our translation, we all see at once, is not very elegant. The revised edition renders the Greek more exactly, and besides uses better English. "He that doubteth," it says, "is like the surge of the sea, driven by the wind and tossed."

There are a great many of these changes in the epistles, and some of them render the language of the writers more evidently in conformity with our orthodox faith. But when we turn from the epistles to the gospels we are disappointed and saddened. The first rule agreed upon by the committee of convocation was to "introduce as few alterations as possible into the text of the authorized version." Very few people, it seems to me, will believe that the revisers kept themselves to this rule. Some of the changes are trivial, indeed, and some are actual blemishes. They seem to have acted upon the idea that English scholars should exhibit all their scholarship in this revision, and have substituted one word for another in an utterly arbitrary manner. In the corresponding parts of the evangelists, for instance, and indeed throughout the gospels they have taken some unaccountable liberties. They would, it would seem, I have been stated, it almost everywhere "offend," in "cause to stumble." It may be said that "cause to stumble" is more exact. It is hard for any one to see why this change should have been better. There was no difficulty in understanding what was meant by "offend." The new version, instead of making the text plainer, has only made it sometimes obscure. A little further on, as in the Lord's reference to the sowing of the seed, has become in the revised edition "the birds of the heaven." And this is repeated wherever the opportunity occurs. The parable of the sower is evidently fully mutilated. In the account of our Lord's walking on the sea, and the disciples' fear at the sight, this new version makes them say "It is an apparition." How much inferior is this to the simple declaration of our version, "It is a spirit." In some instances these revisers are also inconsistent with themselves. For instead of our Lord's "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" as it is in the authorized version, this new edition has it "What shall a man give in exchange for his life?" Where the Greek word "psuke," translated elsewhere soul, is made to lose its original and general meaning. You will at once think of the account of creation, where it is said, "God breathed into man's nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." Let it be urged upon St. John's Gospel that the [illegible] changes have been made. In our version the Saviour says to Nicodemus, "Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God." This new version has it "Except a man be born anew." It is impossible to see the use of such a change. It is only substituting one word for another, when the word was endeared to us all through generations and streams of years. In the 14th chapter of St. John, where our Lord is speaking of the Paraclete, the Comforter, he says, "I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you," a text that has in it an infinity and consolation. This word has been changed, the word being "desolate." I need not quote the text at all to as possible. I could give innumerable examples, but it would be quite in vain. All I have to ask, is that we hold fast to the old bible as it has been handed down to us, which is so much better than the new. The only use that I can see of this new version is to keep it as a kind of commentary upon the present text. With King James' version the revisers knew almost as much of the original as they do, and that in all we were reading the original language.

Let me in conclusion quote a short passage from the preface to the revised testament. Speaking of the authorized version, it says: "It is justly esteemed the best version ever made for public use. It is not simply a translation, but a living reproduction of the original scriptures in the purest English, believed and venerated and devout as they were in the beginning. It reads like an original work, such as the prophets and apostles might have written in the seventeenth century for English readers. It reflects the very image of the English language, the most choice of all modern languages, and blends with singular felicity Saxon force and Latin polish. Even in its prose it has the poetry, and stands to-day, as it is the first of English classics, and the greatest modern authors have drawn inspiration from this pure well of English undefiled. It has faithfully served its purpose for more than two hundred and fifty years, and is so interwoven with English literature, that it can never be entirely superseded. Next to Christianity itself, the version of 1611 is the greatest boon which a kind Providence has bestowed upon the English race. It carries with it to the ends of the earth, all that is truly valuable in modern civilization, and gives strength, beauty and happiness to our domestic, social and national life."

Let this word then be to us a lamp to our feet and a light unto our paths—walking as it lights us, walk loving as it bids, live as it teaches, and then though any of earthly blessings should be withheld from us we shall have what God has so eternally blest. The word of God was given. It is perfect, that it might guide our way and guide our steps into the way of peace.

OPEN LETTER TO GRANT.

Congressman Thos. L. Young has his Say.

CINCINNATI, June 18.—The following open letter will be published in city papers from ex-Gov. Thos. L. Young, member of congress from the second district of Ohio.

WASHINGTON, June 18.

To General U. S. Grant—Dear Sir: I was pained to read in the associated press dispatches this morning what purports to be an interview with you, published in a New York paper, wherein you take occasion to allude to me as a "liar," because you read what purported to be an interview of mine in some paper of New Orleans, wherein I was quoted as saying that you were connected with certain banks and that you were president of one of them. In your interview as published you admit all and exactly what I did say, that you are director in a U. S. national bank of New York city. This I knew from official sources. I never said that you were the president of a bank or that you were connected with any other bank, because I did not know it. The conversation occurred among a party of gentlemen all of whom as far as I know are your admirers. It turned on your Mexican railroad enterprise, and the part relating to banking business was only an incident of it. There was in the company a prominent newspaper correspondent and he made the conversation the basis of an interview. You take exceptions to that interview. You are made to say that I intended to talk strongly of you and to belittle you. Now, sir, you know that when you speak to a journalist and give him what you wish to say the public that it be printed all over the country, and this last must be my excuse for writing this letter, to do myself the justice to say that from the commencement of your public life as president of the United States, I was an admirer of and a friend, I was a delegate to the district to Chicago in 1868 that made you nominee for president, in 1872 I went to Philadelphia, to assist in the same good purpose. I always have and have expected by [illegible], and your highest efforts as [illegible] years of your presidency.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

Preliminary Railroad Work near Omaha.

OMAHA, June 18.—The first surveying party sent out by Chief Engineer Hecht of the Missouri Pacific railway in Nebraska are now at work near Louisville, about twenty miles south of this city. They are surveying with the probability in at they will strike the Union Pacific either at Papillion or Gilmore. It is likely that trains will run into Omaha over the Union Pacific from one of the above places, the latter place being only ten miles south of here. The Missouri Pacific will cross the B. & M. R. R. track and Platte river at Louisville. Two more surveying parties have been sent out to work between Louisville and Atchison. Chief Engineer Hecht has established his headquarters here. Everything goes to show that the road is to be built as rapidly as possible from Atchison to Omaha.

Rise in Texas Railroad Stock.

NEW YORK, June 18.—A rise of 8 per cent. in Houston and Texas is due to the new connection of the road and a scheme for selling land to English capitalists and paying bonded indebtedness with the proceeds.

Vanderbilt's New Line.

BLOOMINGTON, June 18.—It is understood on good authority that Vanderbilt will take possession of the Lake Erie and Western road July 1st.

Eastern Freight Rates.

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Eastern freight rates have become utterly demoralized. Grain was taken to-day, it is asserted, for 15 cents per hundred, and flour 30 cents per barrel to New York. Agents are discussing the situation to-day.

Short in his Accounts.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Thos. Hoops, foreign freight agent of the National Dispatch fast freight line has disappeared with his accounts about a thousand short.

Charged with Robbery.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 18.—Patrick Lynch, a reported railroad man of Iowa, has been arrested at Waseca, charged with robbery of Hayes, Dr. N., found dead in their rooms, supposed to be suffocation by an exploded lamp. They had lost when they entered the room, and only $2 when found.

Birth of an American Railroad Company in London.

LONDON, June 18.

A new American railroad company was brought out this morning, in the midst of the discouragement caused by a sort of panic in new railroad stocks. It is called the Alabama, New Orleans, Texas & Pacific Railroad Company. The prospectus states that the object of the company is to acquire a line which shall eventually connect the Atlantic cities with New Orleans, the Gulf of Mexico and trans-Mississippi system of railroads. The capital asked for is five million pounds sterling, rather a heavy demand at such a moment. The solicitors of the company are Morgan & Co., the railroad lawyers, long connected with the Erie people. The wonder here is why capital should be asked for in England, and why, if it is a good scheme, some of it is not offered to the American public. This and other projects of a similar kind, are regarded with great suspicion, especially at a time when established American stocks are being knocked up and down to suit the convenience of brokers and speculators.

Northern Pacific Equipment.

[St. Paul Pioneer-Press.]

The Northern Pacific Railroad Company has just ordered of the Peninsular car works at Detroit, Mich., 500 flat cars, which, added to those previously contracted for this season's delivery, make a total of 3,000 freight cars. Of the cars by the previous contracts, from 15 to 25 are arriving in St. Paul per day, loaded with steel rails from the Union Steel & Iron Company, Chicago, going west of Brainerd. In addition to the four new passenger cars already delivered, and also to the three new sleepers, one of which has been shipped from the Barney & Smith Manufacturing Company of Dayton, O., eight new passenger coaches have been contracted for with the Jackson & Sharp Car Company of Wilmington, Del., for July delivery. The orders for locomotives from the Baldwin locomotive works have been increased from twenty-five to thirty-five, the majority of which are to be of the Mogul pattern, with Wooten fire box for burning lignite, which fuel is found west of the Missouri river, on the Missouri and Yellowstone division of the Northern Pacific. This list of new equipments is exclusive of the large orders being filled for the Pacific coast.

BILIOUS DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, COSTIVENESS, Dyspepsia, etc., are speedily removed by Dr. Jayne's Sanative Pills. Forty years' use has proved them superior to all other remedies for the cure of the various diseases for which they are recommended. In their action they are mild and certain, and may be taken at any time without risk from exposure.

It has become pretty well settled that the colony represented by Mr. McPherson, of Thurston county, will make a settlement in Whatcom county, there being large quantities of available lands there for their purpose.

A LOCAL FIGHT IN IRELAND.

The Mitchelstown Affair Described by a Priest—Other Matters.

FERMOY, June 19.—The evictions and process servings have continued the eighth this week, without resistance. The bodies of police and soldiers have been so large as to overawe the bravest of the would-be insurgents. The most fierce going of the coming evictions are done which are to occur at Mitchelstown, county Cork, where it will be remembered that a desperate encounter was barely avoided a fortnight ago on the occasion of evictions on the property of the Countess of Kingston. In no part of the country are the populace more determined and reckless than at Mitchelstown, under the shadow of the famous Galtee mountains, where the rebellious spirit is strongest and where poverty has made the people desperate and lawless. Recent events, and particularly this recent encounter, have intensified the feeling of resentment toward the landlords and police, there being no disturbances threatened in any other quarter. I visited Mitchelstown, which is a ten mile drive from Fermoy, one of the most important military stations in Ireland. The surrounding country is very picturesque. I first called upon Father Barton, a most intelligent and courteous priest, from whom I learned how apprehensive he and those interested in the safety of the people were regarding the next eviction day. He feared that the consequences might be very serious, for it was almost impossible to entirely stop the stone throwing. He gave me an account of the late encounter and believed that it was only a miracle that prevented terrible bloodshed. The soldiers and police numbered five hundred, and the people about 15,000. Many of the latter were armed and all were in a state bordering on frenzy. Stones were showered on the police and soldiers, and only by Father O'Connell's appeal to officers not to order firing and by their united efforts to pacify the people was a catastrophe prevented. I heard in other quarters a most confident assertion that had the people been fired on they would have overwhelmed the soldiers by desperation and numbers if not by arms and training. Even Father Burton expressed the belief that the people would have defeated the soldiers. It is certain that the next expedition to Mitchelstown will be at least a thousand strong and composed of selected troops and police. I asked Father Burton if the ringing of the chapel bells could not be prevented. He feared not, as the people would break into the chapels. The land league was doing all it could to pacify the people and inducing them to be quiet, but it was impossible to prevent them from meeting when excited. Those in the rear ranks of the crowd would proceed to throw stones, for which those in the front ranks would suffer if the soldiers fired. The league was considering the appointment of leading members as special constables to maintain peace and restrain violence. I next visited Mr. Markey, who has been secretary of the league since the arrest of the first secretary under the coercion act last week. He expressed some fear of a disturbance at the next eviction but did not see how it could be prevented if the people were determined as before. They were aware of the consequences of assailing the soldiers, but seemed not to care for the consequence. The people were very poor about Mitchelstown and had made up their minds that they would get a living off the land. Once, what might, they could die but once. Mr. Markey believed that if the evictions could be stopped till the passing of the land bill there would be no trouble, for he thought that if the people got the land bill they would not give a thought to home rule or national independence.

ALBANY COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

ALBANY, June 18, 1881.

The Albany Collegiate Institute has just closed a year of advanced prosperity. Rev. E. N. Condit, president. This institution was founded about fifteen years ago, and is justly regarded as one of the central interests of Albany. More than one hundred students have been enrolled during the past year, and who will estimate the value of the influences which have been thus put at work through the forces here employed?

On last Sunday evening our citizens had a rich treat at the college chapel. Rev. A. L. Lindsley, of Portland, delivered the annual sermon. It was a clear, forcible and eloquent portrayal of the gospel idea of thorough education, as compared with the partial system of modern scientists and sceptics. Dr. Lindsley, while advancing with age in impressive and patriarchal appearance, has lost none of his wonted fire and vim and oratory. As evidence of his remarkable self-possession and the hold which he had upon his audience, it may be stated that an alarm of fire in the midst of his sermon attended with the stampeding of firemen from the church had no visible effect whatever upon the speaker, and left to remain attentive, glad and attentive listeners to the burning words of life and salvation. The sermon was a valuable one and will long be remembered by students and citizens.

The annual examinations of collegiate classes on Tuesday afternoon took an unusually interesting form, in what were denominated sub-lectures of students. Members of classes in history, philosophy, physiology, mathematics, etc., were publicly called on without previous knowledge of the exact topic to be assigned them, to take the stand, and in effect deliver impromptu lectures upon the particular studies pursued. Questions were asked at any time during the delivery of these sub-lectures by teachers or others, so as to test in the severest possible manner the pupils' attainments. For several hours this course was pursued, and the results were highly creditable to the students and satisfactory to patrons.

Tuesday evening was given up to social enjoyment. The members of the Erodelphian and of the Albany College Literary Society gave the faculty a very pleasant surprise in the shape of a superb strawberry festival, prepared in one of the society rooms. This was a very creditable affair and shows how strong are the ties of sympathy and affection existing between teachers and the taught in this institution.

On Wednesday evening, June 15, the annual entertainment by the students of the institute came off in the college chapel. There was much of real merit in the exercises.

The next year's course of study in this flourishing institute will begin the first week in September. The following instructors have already been engaged: Rev. Elbert N. Condit, A. M., Prof. Arthur M. Mattoon, Miss Lizzie W. Condit, Miss Mary Gaston. The coming year will doubtless be an advance upon the present, as this has upon the past. So may it ever be.

VISITOR.

CAPRICE.

Thou wert a Titan, but a Titan bound!
With wild, tumultuous, heavings in thy breast,
And fancy-fevered, and cool judgment lost
In mighty maelstroms of divine unrest.
What souls were dragged with doubt in skeptic time
They very disturbed into believing life,
And fools that raved in prose or writhed in rhyme
Were sharply surgeoned by thy needful knife.
But, if there were who in this storm of things
Sighed for sweet calm, and in this dark for light,
And in this jar for the wise muse that sings
All wrong into the ordered ranks of right,
They thanked not thee, who didst assault their brain,
With thunder-claps and water-spouts for rain.

PURCHASE OF THE PANAMA RAILROAD.

The New York Times of June 1 gives the following details of the purchase of the Panama railroad for De Lesseps' canal company:

About the middle of May Mr. Trenor W. Park, president of the Panama Railroad company and one of its heaviest stockholders, submitted to the representatives of M. de Lesseps a memorandum of the terms upon which he and a certain gentleman with whom he was associated, owning a majority of the stock, were prepared to sell. The general terms according to a statement made by Mr. Park yesterday, were that Mr. Park and his associates were to receive $250 per share for the stock held by them, the cash in the treasury and all bills receivable to be retained in the interest of the shareholders. The assets thus excepted amounted to about 45 per cent of the capital stock, so that the actual price demanded was $205 per share. The amount was to be paid by the canal company in six installments, as follows: $4,000,000 on July 1, when the arrangement was to take effect, and the rest in five annual sums, each drawing interest at six per cent from the date of the ratification of the agreement and the payment of the first $4,000,000. But the canal company reserves the privilege of paying the whole amount at any date within eighteen months after July 1st, or before January 1st 1883, provided three months notice of such intention shall be given in advance. But unless this provision is carried into effect within the period specified, the payments are to be made annually, and until the last payment is made the present stockholders of the railroad are to retain control of the board of directors by a majority. By this arrangement, at the expiration of five years, the canal company, by acquiring a majority of the stock, will enter into the possession of the road. Mr. Park said yesterday that he had felt bound to protect other shareholders than those associated with him, and had consequently stipulated that any holder of shares should receive the same amount per share that he and his associates received, by signifying his intention to sell within three months after July 1, 1881, and notices to that effect would, of course, be transmitted to all such persons. But in case of failure to receive such notice, any stockholder might take advantage of the terms at any date within the five years specified, by making cash that no such notice had been received by him within after the expiration of the three months named in the contract. The bonded debt of the company ($4,000,000), secured by mortgage on the road, and $1,000,000 of indebtedness, secured by the steamboat property belonging to the corporation, are not to be affected by the sale, but to remain, as now, a lien upon the railway and its appurtenances.

The time having nearly expired during which the canal company could take advantage of the terms of this memorandum, its representatives signified on Thursday their intention to accept the proffer, and a conference was held to settle upon the form of contract. The document was drawn, signed yesterday by the representatives of the two corporations, and has been transmitted to Paris for the formal ratification of M. de Lesseps and his board of directors. Mr. Park said yesterday that he regarded this as a mere formality, as the representatives of the canal company had shown to him that they were invested with plenary authority. He considered that negotiation closed, therefore, and the canal company as the prospective owners of the railway.

The capital of the Panama railroad company is $7,000,000, and the canal company, at $250 per share, pays $17,500,000 for the property, provided that all the stockholders accept the arrangement. The interest on the annual installments, and the other items previously mentioned, added to the $17,500,000, will give the shareholders of the railroad about $20,000,000 to be divided among them. The road is 47½ miles long, and has of late years paid annual dividends of 20 per cent. The stock has sold of late at an average rate of $275 per share.

The standing price for wood in Walla Walla is $6 for mountain and $7 for hard wood.

Catarrhal

CATARRH

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1. That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local, and finally constitutional.

2. That, being constitutional, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3. That impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa, and Consumption.

5. That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations, and Insoluble Snuffs, cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6. That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

Dewey & Co., 46 Dey St., N. Y. for $1.50 a package. To Clubs, six packages for $7.50. MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 20, 1881

THE ELECTION TO-DAY.

[illegible] era of jobbery and robbery [illegible] be purchased [illegible] improved [illegible] stern to [illegible] a horse or a set of harness to be bought for the fire department. [illegible] The great object of [illegible] the city treasury [illegible] the city the [illegible] machine [illegible] partisan method [illegible] members live like parasites [illegible] municipal [illegible] Just such a ring [illegible] of [illegible] partisan [illegible] men who live by their [illegible] office [illegible] salaries [illegible] Money [illegible] managing [illegible] elections [illegible] machine [illegible] know how to recover [illegible] with [illegible] in [illegible] that this is the one thing the citizen has [illegible] consider [illegible] how he may [illegible] its against a gang whose skill is how to [illegible] preying upon it.

It is notorious that the hope of the ringsters is [illegible] at their ticket by the irresponsible and [illegible] vote. Over three thousand votes will probably be thrown to-day. Not one [illegible] and unbought votes will be cast for the [illegible] ticket. A vast majority of those who live by regular industry and honorable business [illegible] short examination of the situation [illegible] convince any one of this fact. The business class [illegible] are fully alive to the situation [illegible] business classes we mean not only the tree merchants and shopkeepers but those who own small property and live by regular industry. While it is true that certain persons belonging to these classes are carried away by partisan clamor and others again by personal sentiments imaginary private interests and various other trifling reasons [illegible] would be puzzled to formulate [illegible] the larger number taking the different view and recognizing the fact that [illegible] election in which most important interests are involved see the necessity of electing the non partisan candidates and defeating the effort [illegible] subordinate all the business of the city to the greed of [illegible] partisan ring whose [illegible] and who would use the [illegible] power [illegible] elections. Intrenched here [illegible] now possessed of the police force [illegible] partisan machine controlling the purse of the city and make it the [illegible] purpose of all the operations of the city government [illegible] power [illegible] itself so strong as to [illegible] dislodge it by ordinary means [illegible] that it is striving for. Its efforts go far beyond the present. They look to the [illegible] a scheme of elections [illegible] involved in this election now.

The moral strength of the city is plainly on the side of the citizens movement [illegible] would appear almost impossible for the ring [illegible] make any effort to [illegible] But it will not [illegible] to entertain too sanguine a hope. The [illegible] various [illegible] of rings and cliques of [illegible] are enough in this effort who [illegible] could be induced to support the [illegible] party when its principles were actually [illegible] contest [illegible] principle. The party name is only a [illegible] mark the [illegible] of a [illegible] the system of spoils. [illegible] that [illegible] clearly illustrated [illegible] democrats who are active supporters of the so-called republican effort. When it come to a contest of this kind there is a [illegible] of nature which makes this whole class both democrats and republicans of the tax consuming and spoils hunting gang combine in [illegible] instinct for the common purpose of a raid upon the body politic. Persons who suffer themselves to be made the dupes of a party name on such an occasion are relied on to furnish a large part of the necessary voting strength and thus the ring masters always adroitly turn to their own account gaining power and holding power [illegible]

Between the objects which lie behind the opposing tickets to-day there is the widest possible difference. On the one side we have an effort backed by citizens whose only object is a good and sound local government efficiently and honestly conducted. On the other we have an effort directed by a class who make the art of controlling public affairs through partisan manipulation for their personal advantage a profession a study a trade. On the one side the object is to secure a government of the city for the benefit of the city. On the other the object is to control the government of the city for the benefit of a ring organized on a party name and existing for plunder and spoils. When an election is to be held in which only high moral principles are at stake with no hope of personal gain, you will never see these persons at the front. In a national election they can see no particular necessity of maintaining the principles of the republican party. But when there is to be a local election with spoils in sight—though political principles are in no way whatever involved—they are out with proclamations declaring that it is of the highest importance that the principles objects and organization of the party shall be upheld. The device is too shallow for all except those who are the dupes of their own prejudice and blindness, and whose mental and moral obtuseness is the capital which manipulators of ring and machine movements bank on for the votes they require.

Leading citizens should attend the polls to-day and remain there. The moral effect of their presence will be most salutary. This is an election which more nearly touches their material interests than any other election what [illegible] In this point of view even a national election is not to be compared with it. If they regard it as important to themselves and the city to have a business administration carried on for public and general objects rather than a partisan administration carried on for ring purposes with all that the term implies [illegible] will give the day to the necessary effort to beat the ring and smash the machine.

THE EXODUS FROM EUROPE.

The influx of the people of Europe into the United States this year is of so extraordinary a nature that it has attracted the attention of statists to an unusual degree. What are the causes of this astonishing exodus from Europe to America and what are the prospects of its continuance? These are questions both of an economic and social character. [illegible] the recent [illegible] political repression or from [illegible] [illegible] than [illegible] themselves at places [illegible]

[illegible] New York [illegible] the officials of the German society [illegible] New York [illegible] German immigrants. The [illegible] of the [illegible] United States. The great mass of farm [illegible] Germany [illegible]

[illegible]

Last fall at the presidential [illegible] great uproar [illegible] The boisterous conduct of these persons [illegible] November [illegible] Our [illegible] against the [illegible] persons who put no [illegible] projects [illegible] It will be rather difficult for the [illegible] to turn the [illegible] its method and its [illegible]

[illegible] encouraging to the ring [illegible] Dell and Judge [illegible] republican party [illegible] the republican party will [illegible] its present strength. [illegible] democratic party [illegible] probable that [illegible] time forward [illegible] with great [illegible] It is a bad sign for the republican party when gentlemen so unlucky in politics [illegible]

They say that Sidney Dell and Judge [illegible] have gone arm in arm into the [illegible] party. It is a beautiful sight and [illegible] beautiful. And it shows [illegible] that [illegible] was talking for the [illegible] a gentleman of letters and may spend the day in translating for their friend.

First class tradesmen [illegible] trade price [illegible] twenty five [illegible] press [illegible] And [illegible] furnish a corruption fund for [illegible]

A ticket is abroad [illegible] citizens [illegible] Thompson. Voters will [illegible] their guard against all devices of this kind.

The question [illegible] Shall a partisan ring be permitted to clutch the throats of the tax payers of the city. It is a question that will do to think [illegible]

REQUESTED TO CLOSE.

The merchants of Portland are respectfully requested to close their business houses during the time in which the polls are open, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. By order of the Executive Committee of the Citizens' ticket.

CITY.

[illegible] Saturday morning about 4 o'clock an alarm of fire was sounded from No. 4's bell, which speedily brought that company and No. 2 out. The cause of the alarm was a most shameful brawl in a house of ill repute on Third street presided over by Carrie Bradley. It appears that a number of choice and congenial spirits were awaiting night's arrival at the place, which was [illegible] to a very late hour. While the [illegible] was at its height Charles Hamilton entered the house and assaulted the woman. A man who was present attempted to protect Miss Bradley from Hamilton's fury. Hamilton turned from beating the woman and seized hold of a large kerosene lamp which was standing on a table. He dashed the lamp on the floor with an oath, saying he would burn the d——d place. The lamp exploded, and in a moment the whole apartment was in flames. Miss Bradley's arm was painfully burned in getting out of the room. By prompt effort the flames were extinguished, but not until the carpet and furniture were badly burned. Before the engines reached the scene the fire was all out. Hamilton was arrested by officers [illegible] and Watson, and conducted to the city jail. He was charged with attempt to commit arson and his bonds fixed at $500, and also charged with assault, bonds at $50. Not being able to furnish bonds, Hamilton was committed to the city jail. The case will be investigated in police court Tuesday morning.

[illegible] Man Stabbed.—A stabbing row occurred at corner of Taylor and Second streets, early Saturday morning, resulting in a man named William Humbel and another man named Ed. Kennedy, getting very severely cut. A Spaniard named Emanuel Hernandez did the stabbing. These parties had a quarrel about some matter, when Hernandez suddenly drew a pocket knife and made a wicked "pass" at Humbel. He struck him on the left side, the point of the knife entering the coat just over the heart. Fortunately Humbel had some papers in his breast pocket which caused the blade to glance one side. The blade, however, cut a deep gash, penetrating to the rib. The wound is a dangerous one, but not considered necessarily fatal. If Humbel had not had the papers in his pocket, he would doubtless have been instantly killed, for the knife could not have failed to reach his heart. Hernandez then made a thrust at Kennedy, cutting him severely in the left arm, and striking at him a second time nearly severed two fingers of his right hand. Hernandez was arrested and is now in custody. The preliminary hearing will come up tomorrow. Although very faint and weak from loss of blood, Humbel's recovery is considered almost certain. Kennedy's injuries are severe but not dangerous.

Death of Mrs. Elkins.—Mrs. Philathelia Elkins, beloved wife of Hon. Luther Elkins, of Lebanon, Linn county, died at her residence in that place on Tuesday last, in the 75th year of her age. Her death was the result of a painful accident which befell her nearly three weeks before, when she was thrown from a buggy while on her way to Albany. Mrs. Elkins came to Oregon from Ohio in 1852, and made a host of friends by her unselfish ways, gentle manners and benevolent deeds. Her husband, with whom for more than 50 years she walked life's ways, three daughters and four sons, with many grandchildren and other relatives, live to mourn her loss. Mother Elkins had been a consistent Christian for more than a half century. The funeral services took place in the church at Lebanon on Wednesday last, Rev. Messrs. Dillon and Hickman officiating.

It was Loaded.—A dispatch received here yesterday from Drain station, on the line of the Oregon and California railroad, gives particulars of a fatal accident which occurred there Saturday. A man named E. G. White, recently of Oakland, California, was preparing to go out hunting. He desired to ascertain if the gun was loaded, and to determine the fact he repeated the very foolish and fatal experiment of thousands of persons. He blew into the muzzle of the weapon, and it in turn blew half of his head away. Almost every day we are called upon to chronicle just such accidents. It would seem that people ought to profit by so many sad examples.

[illegible] C. F.—Saturday evening Willamette Council No. 1, Order of Chosen Friends, was installed at Workmen's hall by D. S. C., D. Sternberg, with 60 charter members. The following is the list of officers elected to serve for the term ending December [illegible]: C. A. Wheeler, P. C. C.; Frank G. Abell, C. C.; Norman S. Pierce, V. C.; Mrs. Kate C. Abell, Prelate; Sam. R. Irwin, Rec.; Wm. Gadick, Treas.; W. H. Creighton, Fin.; Mrs. M. L. J. Pierce, marshal; Mrs. Julia Plunder, warden; Mrs. H. M. Buss, guard; R. R. Leigh, secretary; G. W. McCoy, Dr. [illegible] M. Kass and Wm. Plunder, trustees; Dr. C. H. Wheeler, medical examiner.

Very Seriously Injured.—News has been received here of a very serious and perhaps fatal accident which befell Mr. Ira Goodnough, formerly a well known resident of Portland. Mr. Goodnough now lives at Island City, Union county. On Thursday Mr. Goodnough while engaged in breaking a young horse was knocked down and trampled under the hoofs of the animal. His head and face was dreadfully cut by the horse's feet, and body badly bruised. His injuries are very serious and his recovery is regarded quite doubtful.

[illegible] Ordination.—Rev. Fung Chak, who has served the Chinese Baptist Mission in this city in an acceptable manner during the past year, will be ordained to the gospel ministry at the Chinese chapel, Tuesday night. There will be a number of delegates from other churches of the valley in the city, including several clergymen, and the exercises will be unusually interesting. The public are invited. The chapel has recently been greatly improved in its interior arrangement, to accommodate its increasing congregations.

Philosophic Society.—The meetings of the First Philosophic Society of Portland at Nonpareil hall yesterday afternoon and evening were well attended. The discussions were conducted in a manner worthy of a well ordered deliberative body, and more than average ability was displayed by several of the speakers. Wide latitude was given to those who took part in the debate, which gave better opportunity than is usually accorded to speakers in expressing their views.

Slight Damage.—The O. R. & N. Co's construction steamer Idaho, which sunk Friday, was successfully raised at 3:30 yesterday afternoon and towed to The Dalles. Repairs will be made immediately, and the boat will be ready for service by Tuesday afternoon. The accident was caused by striking a submerged stump near tunnel No. 1. Only the main deck of the after part of the boat sunk, the bow being above water. The damage is nominal.

Death of R. A. White.—Mr. R. A. White, an old pioneer citizen of Portland, died at his home in San Francisco on the 17th inst. Deceased resided in Portland for many years. He was at one time owner of the building now used as St. Charles Hotel. He removed with his family to San Francisco about three years ago, and since that time has made his home in that city. Mr. White was one of the old pioneers of the state.

Fine Stock.—The steamship Columbia brought to this port some fine stock for exhibition at the state fair, consisting of sheep and cattle, the property of Coleman & Younger, of San Jose. There are eleven head of short-horned Durham cattle, full blooded and of fine form and size. They also bring up five head of Cotswold bucks.

The Berkeley Gymnasium.—This preparatory school to the university affords academic instruction in classics, literature, science or business, and its graduates are guaranteed admission to any college or university. The next term begins July 11. For particulars, address John F. Burris, Superintendent, Berkeley, Cal.

Frightful Fall.—A few days ago a farmer named Hughes, living about four miles west of town, was driving past Marquam's stone quarry on a load of wood, his team scared, became unmanageable and tumbled over an embankment 100 feet high into the gulch below. Mr. Hughes was severely, but not dangerously injured.

Prizes for Base Ball.—The managers of the State Fair announce that they will give two prizes for base ball—one of $100, and a second of $75. Entrance fee $25. It is understood that four or more clubs have entered for the contest. Half fare rates have been secured over the O. R. & N. Co's lines.

Annual Convention.—The annual sabbath school convention for Oregon and Washington meets at Seattle on Thursday, August 4, and continues through the week. The C. & C. R. R., east and west side divisions, will grant half-fare rates as usual to [illegible] on certificates.

[illegible] Discontinued.—The lighthouse board has issued the following notice to mariners: Notice is hereby given that on and after September 1, 1881, the [illegible] sounded at Cape Disappointment light station, mouth of Columbia river, Oregon, will be discontinued.

[illegible] Humane Society.—This organization requests that any act of cruelty to children or animals be reported to the officers, or to any member of the society, with proof, so that offenders may be punished to the full extent of the law.

[illegible] Extension.—The addition to the school [illegible] in Holladay's addition, East Portland, will be [illegible] two stories high with base[illegible]. It will [illegible] about $1000. The contract for the [illegible] was let Saturday evening.

[illegible] The O. R. & N. Co. will sell half [illegible] to the city, on account of state fair, from [illegible] Adams, The Dalles, Umatilla, Ainsworth and Walla Walla, good from June 25th to July 6th, [illegible].

[illegible] Base Ball.—The State Fair Association [illegible] for a base ball tournament, $100 first [illegible] second premium. The entrance fee is $25, [illegible].

[illegible] The steamer A. A. McCully will [illegible] for [illegible]

"THE OLD, OLD STORY."

HOW IT WAS TOLD SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

Immense Mass Meeting Last Night at Taylor Street Church—Hallenbeck the Prodigal, and how he came to himself—The Outlook at the Close of the First Week.

HALLENBECK AND MOODY.

Those who have heard Mr. Moody will at once be struck with some marked resemblances between that world renowned evangelist and Mr. Hallenbeck. Not in personal appearance, for no two men could be more unlike. Mr. Moody [illegible] heavy set, [illegible] and the [illegible] of his [illegible] while Mr. Hallenbeck is tall, over six feet, spare, almost to leanness, cleanly shaven, except a slight mustache, and has rather thin face has a youthful appearance. The likeness between the two men is in their manner of presenting the truth—both having the same simple, clear, direct, positive style so taking with the people. Not that Mr. Hallenbeck is an imitator of Mr. Moody, for he is not; he is not an imitator [illegible] of any man. But the two men follow very largely the same lines [illegible] the same truths to move the people, and use the same methods. Though not so noted as Mr. Moody, Mr. Hallenbeck is in his own way equally strong and effectual. Perhaps in no other one thing is the resemblance more clearly seen than in the complete sinking of self and the implicit reliance upon God which characterizes all Mr. Hallenbeck's addresses and work. He makes his audience forget the man who is speaking to them, but the most careless hearer must think of the Savior of mankind, whom Mr. H. holds up so winningly, and in whom he trusts so completely. The cross of Calvary always hides Mr. Hallenbeck.

THE NOON MEETING SATURDAY

Was largely attended and intensely interesting. The secret of the Christian's power, the enduement from on high, was the theme of the hour. Two, three, sometimes four, Christians were on their feet at the same time to bear witness for God. One young man, the son of a minister of the gospel in the east, testified that he had found pardon of sin since the meetings began.

[illegible] AFTERNOON MEETING.

Notwithstanding the severe storm prevailing the large hall of the Y. M. C. A. was filled at the hour of half-past three. The service of song was unusually impressive. Leader Wadhams and his choir sang unusually well. Mesdames Bird and Hodbrook sang "O That will be Heaven for Me," the choir and audience joining in the chorus with telling effect. Rev. J. A. Cruzan led in an earnest prayer. Mr. Hallenbeck read the 55th chapter of Isaiah, dwelling upon the truth that there is no escape from God's law; that "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he reap," and also that the only safe foundation upon which any man can build for time or eternity is God's word. "Touch the Hem of his Garment" was sung as a solo by Mr. Wadhams. The theme of Mr. Hallenbeck's address was his experience. The dangers surrounding young men in Portland, the traps set to ensnare them into this great destroying sin, was vividly portrayed. The only hope of a drinking man is Christ Jesus. The old Washingtonian movement failed because it forbade its speakers to preach Christ. They attempted to build on man's will; a will shattered and enfeebled by drink, and failure was certain. But there is no such thing as failure to the soul trusting in Christ. These drinking men need our sympathy and our help. They feel discouraged, defeated and enthralled. The devil whispers the soul-destroying lie that "there's no use." We should go to them and tell them the glad truth—God's truth—that there is hope for every one, no matter how great a sinner he may be.

During the conference and inquiry meeting which followed several young men spoke of the power of Christ to save. Nine persons expressed a desire to become Christians. The meeting closed by singing "Must I go, and empty handed?"

AT TAYLOR STREET CHURCH

Sunday night Taylor street M. E. church was crowded, as never before, with an audience that filled every seat, crowded into every foot of standing room, and lined the aisles from the altar to the door. The gospel songs were sung with thrilling effect; Rev. J. A. Gray, of the Baptist church, earnestly besought the throne of grace for the presence and power of the Holy Ghost. "The Ninety and Nine," sung as a solo by Mrs. Cruzan, hushed the large audience to almost painful stillness. Mr. Hallenbeck read for his scripture lesson the 116th Psalm. Mrs. Goodsell sang very touchingly, "O Where is my Boy To-night?" the choir and audience joining in the chorus.

Mr. Hallenbeck's discourse consisted in the recital of his own sad experience. The son of Christian parents, with the blessing of his mother and her loving counsel to be true to the church and the Sunday school, he left his home early in life to go into a store in New York. For a few months he was faithful, but an acquaintance invited him to his gilded saloon, where he took his first drink, and [illegible], and went to his home under the influence of liquor. Against his resolve he went again and became a member of the club, and congratulated himself on the saloons. At the end of six years his father and mother moved to the city and soon the fact that her son was enslaved by drink came to the knowledge of his mother. On his knees by that mother's side he promised God and his mother not to drink any more, only to break the promise. He became so hardened that, while truthful in all other things, he did not hesitate to lie repeatedly and designedly in regard to drinking, giving his pledge again and again, deliberately purposing to break it. Mr. Hallenbeck gave a thrilling description of a saloon meeting held by the woman's crusade, and his desperate struggles under the influence of those brave Christian women to reform. Sober for a month he left New York, that he might cut himself loose from his old companions and went to Chicago only to fall again in a very short time. He wandered down into southern Kansas. There a letter from his father told him that the father had heard Sankey sing "The Ninety and Nine," and that it reminded him of his lost son. The father's word haunted him and hearing that Moody and Sankey were to visit Chicago he made his way back there. The first meeting in Farwell hall, held by Moody and Sankey Mr. Hallenbeck was there. Then followed a touching recital of his struggles, day after day, held up by a strong Christian man, and at last was led out into the light and freedom of Christ's saving grace by a Christian woman. Christ not only saved him from all sin, but took away completely the terrible appetite for strong drink. A glad letter to his father brought back the sad news that his mother was dead. The simple, pathetic, tender recital of his meeting with his father, and their visit to Greenwood cemetery and prayer at his mother's grave bedewed every eye.

The recital of this history of a prodigal lost, abandoned, and saved, occupied more than an hour, but not one of the hundreds standing in the vestibule and in the aisles left the house. At its close, so intense was the feeling that the moment spent in silent prayer was almost painful, and the beautiful quartette, "In the Silent Midnight Watches," sung very softly by Mesdames Bird and Goodsell and Messrs. Bird and Wakefield, fell upon the audience, giving a sense of relief.

Rev. J. A. Cruzan closed with a prayer of power and pathos, pleading especially for prodigal sons. A conference meeting, and an enquiry meeting, in which a large number asked for prayer and declared their purpose to become Christians, fittingly closed this memorable meeting.

OVERFLOW MEETING.

Hundreds were unable to get into the Taylor street church, and many went away. An overflow meeting was organized in the vestry, led by Dr. Lindsley with George Best as musical director. This meeting was intensely interesting.

Meetings will be held in the Y. M. C. A. this week as follows: Prayer meetings every day, led by Mr. Hallenbeck, at 12 o'clock; ladies' prayer meeting at 10 o'clock; addresses by Mr. Hallenbeck every night at 7:45. Prayer meetings will be held in all the churches Thursday night as usual.

CHURCH ELECTION.

In the Scandinavian Evangelical Lutheran church of this city there will be prayer meetings in the old academy at 7 P. M., Thursday of this week. After services an election will be held for trustees to arrange for English services to be held in the church in East Portland and to fix the time for holding services afterwards in both cities.

Mining Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—The supreme court to-day vacated that portion of the order made yesterday in the case of mining companies against Judge Keyser of the superior court, of Yuba county, which set aside injunction on working mines.

Fire at San Francisco County Jail.

A fire at the county jail this morning started between the roof and the ceiling of the upper rooms, causing considerable excitement for a while. The police gathered promptly in response to a call by telephone. Prisoners in the vicinity of the fire were removed to a place of safety and the flames extinguished. Loss, about $1000.

Suicide in a Cell.

SAN RAFAEL, June 18.—Albert Hall was arrested last night on a trifling charge and placed in the county jail to await examination. On the deputy sheriff going to his cell to-day he was found dead, having committed suicide by cutting his throat with a piece of a broken bottle.

Murder in San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—Maggie Bunar, keeper of a bagnio, was shot dead this morning at about 4 o'clock. It was at first supposed to be suicide, but developments before a coroner's jury point to her fancy man, Charlie Gordon, who has been arrested.

NEVADA.

Vindicated on Trial.

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev., June 17.—County commissioner Sheridan was honorably acquitted this P. M., the jury not leaving their seats. Indigent orders are shown to have been forged by a person known, but whose name was suppressed.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

The Paige Trial.

PENDLETON, June 18.—Argument in the case of the State vs. Paige was opened at nine A. M., by L. G. Stearns for the State followed by J. H. Reed and W. Lair Hill for the defense, and concluded by E. C. Bronaugh for the State. At 4:30 P. M. the court delivered a lengthy charge and the jury retired at 5 P. M.

Not Guilty in the First Case.

PENDLETON, June 19.—After being out all night the jury in the Paige case returned a verdict of not guilty at 7:30 this morning. This was on the indictment for larceny of currency. Two indictments are still pending against him—one for larceny of gold coin and one of gold dust. These will probably be taken up immediately.

Died from his Wounds—A Drunken Crowd.

THE DALLES, June 19.—The man who was shot at tunnel No. 1 was Pat Gilburn, instead of Pat Burns, as reported. He died in the afternoon after receiving the injury. Yesterday a coroner's inquest was held, and a verdict rendered that he came to his death from a gun shot wound in his back. There were three wounds on the body, one from a shot in the calf of the left leg, also one in the back and a cut in the forehead. The witnesses examined were so drunk that nothing intelligible could be derived from them. There seems not to have been a sober man on the premises at the time of the shooting. Mr. Pierce says that Gilburn attacked him with a knife before he seized the gun from the saloon keeper and fired. A man named Quinn was also cut in the neck in the affray.

Again Afloat.

The Idaho came up to-day, having been raised after four hours of siphon pumping. The hole in her bow was from eight to ten inches in diameter.

Arrival of the Sleepers at The Dalles.

The Pullman sleepers arrived on the barge Atlas this afternoon.

Municipal Election.

The city election takes place to-morrow. The principal contest centers around the office of marshal for which there are three candidates.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

More Particulars of the Coleman Affair—The Little Girl found in Good Hands.

PORT TOWNSEND, June 18.—A few days since a report was made from this place of an accident which happened at Port Angeles whereby a man named Coleman, whose real name was Corringham, lost his life by drowning. The sequel of the event took place to-day and proves that truth is stranger than fiction. The Associated Press reporter in his dispatch from this place mentioned that by Coleman's death a little motherless girl has been left an orphan. The child, who is about eight years old, had been left by her father in care of King of this city, and after the death of the man, the little waif was taken in charge by Mrs. E. H. Brown, wife of the shipping commissioner of this city, who was anxious to adopt her. Meanwhile the mother of the girl was actually alive and residing in San Francisco, Cal., having obtained a divorce from her husband some three years ago, on account of extreme cruelty, the court granting her the care of the child. Unfortunately Coleman was allowed to visit the child, and about thirteen months ago he contrived to steal it, and every effort made to catch him was found useless. Parties have ever since been hunting for him through Oregon, the feelings of the mother being lacerated by every fresh failure. At last her health beginning to give way, she sent her step son, Mr. Schimmelpfinnig, to search for the child, fully resolving that if it should prove fruitless, she would apply to the governor of California for assistance in her search. Mr. S. traced Coleman to Portland, Or., and from there to Seattle, W. T., but at the latter place he lost every clue to the fugitives, and with a heavy heart he was about to return to Portland and thence to San Francisco, when his eye happened to catch the dispatch relating to the death of Coleman published in the Seattle Post, and ascertaining by telegraphing that the child he was so anxiously looking for was here and well cared for, the brother took the first steamer for this place and arrived to-day and claimed the lost child, and to-morrow the so strangely reunited will take their departure on the steamer Dakota for San Francisco. The little girl is very bright and intelligent, and made many warm friends for herself both in school and at home, but she had been taught by her father to believe that her mother was dead, and nothing to the contrary was known until yesterday.

Shipping.

The steamship Dakota sailed for San Francisco at noon with the following passenger list: J. Sturgess, Capt. Wright, James Friend and wife, Charles Brand, V. E. Tail, J. W. Womble, D. Johnson, wife and 2 children, Mrs. G. D. Arnold and son, Hugh Craig, J Sumock, W. Sumock, Gee Hee, Z. C. Miles, C. R. S. Cleves, Mrs. M. Lawrence, Joseph Henry, C. S. Templeton, wife and three children, E. H. McAlmond and wife, Annie Corringham, Ed Schimmelfennig, William Furlong, William Campbell, and 22 in the steerage.

The libel case against the schooner Ariel was dismissed yesterday, and the vessel proceeded on her voyage to San Francisco.

The French bark Notre Dame, Auxiliatrice master, having been thoroughly fumigated, has been released from quarantine and is now at Port Blakely loading. Her crew are still retained at the court house.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Census of Victoria and Province—Exploration of the Interior—Etc., Etc.

VICTORIA, June 18.—The population of Victoria city, exclusive of Indians, has been ascertained by the census enumerators to be 5864. The population of the province, exclusive of Indians, will be found to be about 25,000.

The "Fun on the Bristol" party start south Monday. Their engagement was largely remunerative.

Crop reports are generally favorable.

Father Fouquet, a French priest at Kootenay, near the boundary line, has been brutally assaulted by an American outlaw named Jenkins.

Information has been received from the Rogers syndicate exploring party that seven of the Indians engaged had returned, stating that after going through the Eagle pass and crossing the Columbia, the party proceeded up the Illecillewaet, which empties into the Columbia opposite the head of the Eagle river. After getting into the Selkirk range in the elbow of the river they were stopped by the snow and had to retrace their steps back to the Columbia, where their seven Indians were paid off and with the other two the Messrs. Rogers went down the river to Colville. Here they are purposing to lay in a further supply and make another effort to cross the Selkirk range and get to Howse pass. The prevailing impression is that the route through the Selkirk is impracticable, and that therefore the whole project must be ultimately abandoned.

NOTES FROM ALBANY.

Our Albany correspondent sends the following under date of June 18th:

The late valuable rains have passed away gradually with cool and cloudy weather, so that extensive rust in wheat is not yet apprehended.

Beautiful samples of flax from the fields of Mr. J. Thompson have been exhibited at Stewart & Grey's office in this city. These stalks of flax are 43 inches in length, and yet were not in full bloom when pulled.

The tickets are already out for Dr. Stratton's lecture on Thursday evening next. Nearly everybody expresses a desire to hear the eminent Oregonian, and we have no doubt a full house will greet his appearance.

At the Blue Ribbon Club last evening a motion was carried requesting the president to open correspondence with Mr. Hallenbeck, of Portland, and see if that eminent temperance worker could be induced to lecture in Albany. He is needed.

Mr. C. C. Godley is still confined to his house by illness. Mrs. Godley's death last week was a heavy blow upon him. The funeral services took place at the house, and were conducted by Rev. E. N. Condit—Mr. Godley being unable to leave his bed.

Mayor Froman and family started for Upper Soda Springs on Thursday last. The object is to promote the health of the family, but it is understood that no deer, bear or elk will be safe within range of Hon. David's rifle. Many others will follow soon for the health of wives and daughters. Fish and berries are true panaceas in summer time. So think the lords of creation.

Your correspondent was at Lebanon on the day of W. W. Francis' reappearance. Francis came out of the mountains east, but could give no account of how he got there. He alleges that he was attacked by robbers and became insensible under their blows. When he recovered he found himself lost in the mountains. He was sent immediately to his home in Halsey, where this strange story may be unraveled.

Washington Territory.

The contractor gets $2500 for raising the submerged engine at New Tacoma. The job has been so difficult and expensive that small margin will be left for profit.

On Wednesday, a stick of timber was put in the bay from Mackintosh & Swan's camp, east of Olympia, which was 121 feet long, 32 inches at the top and 48 inches at the butt. Next camp to be heard from.

The Golden Enterprise tunnel at Centerville is now in 140 feet. The body of gravel that was under the tunnel thirty feet back has raised in the face six feet. The miners are looking at every set of timbers for the appearance of the pipe clay under this gravel so they can sink without water and find the bottom wash. This will be the first time they have had an opportunity of sinking under a heavy wash.

The graduates of '81 from the state university planted a "class tree" in the university grounds on Wednesday, the 15th inst. The Eugene brass band furnished music for the occasion. The principal feature was a "class tree" poem, written by Dr. A. W. Patterson, and read by Miss Mary Hall. The graduating class was composed of the following members: Emery E. Burke, George E. Bushnell, Claiborne M. Hill, Edgar J. Maxwell, Anna Whiteaker, Charles S. Williams and Claiborne A. Woody.

THE CORINTH CANAL.

[From the New York Times.]

An extra session of the senate must be called without delay, and Mr. Burnside must come to the help of our insulted and down-trodden country. That reckless, incompetent, unprincipled and horribly successful person, M. de Lesseps, is about to construct a ship canal across the isthmus of Corinth, and our senate must adopt a resolution warning him that the United States will never suffer any foreigner to cut any isthmus in two unless the entire control of that isthmus is placed in our hands.

The impertinence of M. de Lesseps' Corinth canal scheme is only equaled by its absurdity. He proposes to construct a canal without locks, and every one who is familiar with the isthmus knows that this cannot be done. It is true that the distance between the gulf of Corinth and the gulf of Egina is only about four miles, but the nature of the country is such that no canal can be cut through it. Admitting for the sake of argument, that it would be possible to cut through four miles of country as old and consequently as tough as is the Corinthian isthmus, what does de Lesseps propose to do with the river Kakopotamos? It is true that in the dry season this river can only be found by the most careful search, but in the rainy season it pours down through the back-yard of Gen. Mavrocordatis, and in front of the country house of the late prime minister of Greece, a flood of water that would sweep away sand and chips with frightful velocity. M. de Lesseps pretends that he will carry this river through an inch lead pipe into Gen. Mavrocordatis' cistern, and thus prevent it from damaging his canal, but he will find that he cannot do it. Then there are the Greek statesmen and generals who will hang around M. de Lesseps' band of workmen, and steal their dinner-pails and kidnap the foremen in order to hold them for ransom. In the face of natural obstacles like these the audacious Frenchman will find himself powerless, and he will make a worse failure at Corinth than he made—or at least ought to have made—in Egypt.

There is a practicable route for a canal to connect the Adriatic with the Egean—the route popularly known as the Dulcigno-Salonica route. It is rather longer than the Corinthian route, being, in fact, about 180 miles long, but the canalization of the river Wardar would require only 27 miles of actual canal to be dug. Starting from Dulcigno, this canal would reach, by a system of 170 locks, the river Wardar, near Uskub. From thence to Salonica it would be necessary to straighten the course of the river, to deepen the channel, and to overcome the rapids by means of 1134 locks. Vessels could then pass direct from the Adriatic sea to the Egean sea without occupying more than seven months in making the passage. This scheme was laid before M. de Lesseps long ago, but he haughtily rejected it and said that he would have nothing to do with a canal with locks. There is no doubt that an American company will be formed to construct the Dulcigno-Salonica canal, and that it will be finished and opened long before M. de Lesseps' impossible canal is ready for commerce.

Col. Bead's plan of a ship railway across the isthmus of Corinth ought to have received respectful consideration from M. de Lesseps. Col. Bead proposes to construct a railway with grades not exceeding 10,460 feet in a mile, and capable of transporting the largest ship across the isthmus in a few hours. This is a simple, inexpensive and thoroughly practicable plan, but when it was submitted to M. de Lesseps he used language not found in any French Ollendorf, and clamored for his canal without locks. The obstinacy of this man will be his ruin, and he will, when it is too late, regret that he was not in all things guided by ingenious American colonels and other scientists whose home is in the boundless west.

Although nothing can be clearer than that it is utterly impossible for the Corinthian canal to be cut, M. de Lesseps must distinctly understand that when it is cut the United States will insist upon controlling it. The interests of our commerce render it necessary that no foreign nation shall have it in its power to close any canal to American ships. It is idle for M. de Lesseps to say that we have no more right to interfere in regard to a canal in Greece than we would have were the Corinthian isthmus in Peru or Colombia. The safety of our country is our supreme law. Some day we may have one or two American ships, and one or the other of these ships may find it necessary to pass through the canal which M. de Lesseps vainly imagines he can construct. Does he suppose that this hypothetical American ship will basely consent to pay his canal tolls or will ask him for permission to pass through his canal? The United States senate must stand by the grand Jacksonian doctrine that the American people will do as they please, and must denounce the Corinth canal scheme as an infringement of that doctrine. It is painfully probable that M. de Lesseps will not care a straw for any resolution the senate may pass, or even for any speech Mr. Burnside may make; and it cannot be denied that the United States is powerless to prevent the cutting of the Corinthian isthmus. Still, if we cannot stop the canal scheme, we can at least talk loudly in defense of the interests of a commerce which does not exist and the sooner the senate is called together and begins to talk the better.

THE THREE BELLS.

Beneath the low hung night cloud;
That raked her splintered mast;
The good ship settled slowly,
The cruel leak gained fast.

Over the awful ocean
The signal guns pealed out;
Dear God! was that Thy answer,
From the horror round about?

A voice came down the wild wind,
"Ho! Ship ahoy!" its cry;
Our stout Three Bells of Glasgow,
Shall stand till daylight by!

Hour after hour crept slowly,
Yet on the heaving swells
Tossed up and down the ship light.
The lights of the Three Bells.

And ship to ship made signals,
Man answered back to man.
While oft, to cheer and hearten,
The "Three Bells" nearer ran.

And the captain from her taffrail,
Sent down the hopeful cry,
"Take heart, hold on," he shouted,
"The Three Bells shall lay by."

All night across the waters
The tossing lights shone clear;
All night from reeling taffrail,
The Three Bells sent her cheer.

And when the dreary watches
Of storm and darkness passed
Just as the wreck lurched under,
All souls were saved at last.

Sail on Three Bells forever,
In grateful memory sail!
Ring on Three Bells of rescue,
Above the wave and gale!

Type of the Love eternal
Repeat the Master's cry,
As tossing through the darkness,
The lights of God draw nigh!

Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. Eastern Freights and Shipping.

NEW YORK, June 18.—There is no material change to note in the freight market for Cape Horn which now presents the usual summer dullness. With no prospect of immediate movement, but on the contrary, it is likely to be more quiet before shipments for late fall and winter set in. In the meantime ships will have to depend on regular shippers who always have more or less freight throughout the year. Rates are quite steady at quotations, and there is no prospect of a decline on account of the scarcity of tonnage. Freights at Boston are fairly active, and the ship Brown Brothers is doing well enough to enable her agent to hope that she will get away by the first proximo. Railroad freights at Boston have shown a fair degree of activity. Freights at Philadelphia are not active by any means, and the Samaria drags, although she is nearly loaded. Steamer Rio Janeiro will be ready for freight on the 21st instant; she has already some freight engaged at about clipper rates, including some resin, etc., at 50 cents per barrel. Freights via Panama are very quiet, and nothing offering for San Francisco.

San Francisco Produce Market.
